CONFINE SMALL EMERGENCIES IN A FACILITY

This training program is designed for people who part of an emergency response team who are required to have first attack firefighting skills. It includes preparing for emergency situations, identifying and assessing an emergency, safely confining emergencies, using initial response equipment and reporting on the facility's emergency response

Small emergencies in a facility include incidents such as small fires that can be controlled using a fire extinguisher; chemical spills that can be controlled using facility personal protective clothing and equipment and a spill kit; or a vehicle accident where there is no significant injury or damage

Skills and Knowledge learnt include:

- Prepare for emergency situations
- Identify and assess emergency
- Safely confine emergencies
- Use initial response equipment
- Report facility emergency response

The training program is a “hands on” training and assessment session, with the participant moving around the training facility or around through own premises reviewing equipment, addressing potential issues, extinguishing a fire and competing an incident report.

To be eligible to enrol in this training program, participants must be over 18 years of age and have the support of their employer.

Course Duration: This course is delivered over a half day, with all training and theory assessment being delivered within the first session and practice and assessment delivered in the second session.

Participants are expected to bring their own pen and paper for taking any additional notes.

This unit of competency is nationally recognised and can only be delivered by a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) that complies with the governing standards of quality control and quality training and assessment.

Assessment is based on competency i.e. ability to perform tasks to a required standard. Assessment is conducted through a combination of theory paper and practical demonstration.
